Ohio Men Seeing Action in War's Hot Spots As Hundreds More Train for Combat Service

SINCE the last report, two more names have been added to the "Gold Star Roster" at Ohio University. On October 31, Lieut. (j.g.) George G. Collins, '33, Columbus, died of pneumonia at the Navy's Pre Flight School at the University of Georgia, Athens, Ga. Lieut. Collins, who captained the Ohio University football team which defeated the Navy in 1932, was assistant coach at West High School, Columbus, before entering naval service. He is survived by his wife, the former Miss

Lieut. Ralph C. Frey, U.S.M.C.

Vera Clark, Rutland, whom he married while teaching and coaching at Rutland.

A delayed confirmation of an earlier report made definite the word of the death of Lieut. Richard C. Below, '40, August 10, 1941, at his home in Lakewood. Lieut. Below was attached to the 89th Reconnaissance Squadron of the Army Air Corps at McChord Field, Tacoma, Wash., and was on sick leave at the time of his death.

Lieut. (j.g.) Lloyd Thomas, '35, (see picture) Circlehill, near Nelsonville, and Lieut. (j.g.) Severin L. Rombach, '36, (see picture) Cleveland, are among nine naval aviation officers who fought in the Battle of Midway who have been awarded the Navy Cross for extraordinary heroism. All of the nine officers are listed as missing in action. Lieutenants Thomas and Rombach were members of Torpedo Squadron No. 6, composed of 14 planes, of which only four returned after the action. The Saturday Evening Post of October 31 carries an exceedingly interesting article on Torpedo Squadron No. 6. The citations for the missing fliers read: "The unprecedented condition under which the squadron launched its offensive was so exceptional that it is highly improbable the occasion may ever reoccur where other pilots of the service will be called upon to administer an equal degree of fortitude and gallantry." Both of the Ohioans are married.

In a letter written to his parents under date of August 26, Lieut. Ralph C. Frey, '39, Cleveland, (see picture), of the Marines, gave a graphic description of some of his experiences on Tulagi Island in the Solomons group. Concerning his liquidating of a Japanese sniper hidden in a cave he wrote: "First, I sent one of my corporals after him with grenades, but the grenades hit the cave and rolled out. Finally, I got disgusted and placed the five men with automatic weapons in good positions to cover me. Then, I took a grenade, walked up to the cave . . . threw it into the hole, waited for it to go off, then followed up with my pistol. I reached around the corner and fired just as he fired. He missed, while mine went through his brain, so we cleaned up that little trouble. The story might sound a little dramatic, but fortunately, I had everything with me, the angle of approach, the firepower covering me, etc. Well, anyhow, my number wasn't up, so I'm still alive today . . . don't lose any sleep over me as I'm losing enough for all of us." BULLETIN: Since the foregoing was written, word has been received that on Sept. 15 the fighting marine stopped an enemy bullet in the defense of Henderson Field, on Guadalcanal Island, suffering a compound fracture of his right arm. He was able to walk to a field hospital; was sent to Auckland, New Zealand; and was then furloughed to the States, arriving at the Naval Hospital, Treasure Island, San Francisco, about the first of the month. Lieut. Frey is a former president of the Ohio University chapter of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity.

The October Alumnus reported the probable death of Col. Frank Goettge, U.S.M.C. In a series of letters written by Major Gen. Arthur A. Vandegrift (commanding officer on Guadalcanal Island) to his wife, and published in LIFE magazine, Lieut. Lloyd Thomas, U.S.N.

November 16, the General wrote, under date of August 14: "I write this with a heavy heart. We lost Frank Goettge (Colonel reported missing in action) when he went to the rescue of an ambushed reconnaissance force on Guadalcanal. In addition to being a splendid and brave officer, Frank was a fine shipmate." In a statement secured by I. M. Fester, '95, directly from the Navy Department in Washington, it was learned that Colonel Goettge had seen service as commander of a marine detachment in Central America for which he was awarded the Nicaraguan Medal of Merit with diploma, and that he had been especially commended by the Navy Department for assistance rendered during a ship fire in 1923, and for his work as an aide at the White House from 1930 to 1933.

An Ohioan who knows what at least some of the shooting is about is Captain Fred J. Frazer, '40, Bellefontaine, U. S. Marine Corps, who was aboard the U. S. S. Quincy when it was sunk by the Japs while covering the landing of American troops on Guadalcanal Island. Capt. Frazer was "wounded in action" and is now recovering from his injuries, which consisted of severe burns, at a hospital in Pearl Harbor. The injured marine was president of the Ohio University chapter of Phi Delta Theta during his senior year and is the fiance of Edith M. Maneggie, '40, Cleveland, who, until last June was secretary to Clark E. Williams, '21, in his capacity as editor of Ohio University's official publications. Miss Maneggie is now a clerk-typist at the Naval Air Station, San Diego, Calif.

Clifford L. Hughes, '33, Akron, has been commissioned a lieutenant, junior grade, in the Officers' Appointment Section of the Bureau of Naval Personnel and is stationed at Arlington, Va. Lieut. Hughes received his master's degree from Yale University. At Ohio University he has the distinction of having established one of the highest scholastic records in the history of the school. Prior to entering the service he was assistant personnel director of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., Akron.

Lieut. John L. Boros, '41, Cleveland, has written that "Northern Ireland is constantly cold, wet, and damp . . . the roads are always cluttered with herds of cows or a flock or two of sheep. Last week I was detailed to investigate an accident in which one of our trucks hit a cow. The owner is going to make a claim against the U. S. Army, in spite of the fact that the cow was in the middle of a heavily traveled highway. Poor Uncle." Lieut. Boros is personnel adjutant for his battalion. Ten days before leaving the States he married Miss Mae Belle Chapman, '40, who is teaching at Belle Center.

Lieut. John G. Marvin, '40x, Cincinnati, has been credited with playing a major role in the rescue of Captain Eddie Rickenbacker and members of his crew lost three weeks in the Southwest Pacific after their plane was forced down October 21. Lieut. Marvin charted the region over which planes should fly in searching for the famous flier after the finding of Rickenbacker's pilot, Capt. William T. Cherry.

Lieut. Richard E. Cole, '41x, Dayton, who was personal pilot to Maj. Gen. James Doolittle on the Tokyo bombing raid of last April 18, is stationed in India at the present time and is probably a participant in the bombing attacks currently being leveled at strategic points in Burma. In a letter to a friend, under date of Oct. 26, Lieut. Cole said that he had seen the famed Taj Mahal from the air and had swum in the Ganges River and the Bay of Bengal (but still preferred Wolf Creek, near Dayton). He also remarked that he had seen more cows and less milk in India than any place he had ever been, including Texas.

Corp. Jerry A. Rodgers, Jr., '39, (see picture on page 12), Point Pleasant, W. Va., is a member of an ordnance company "somewhere in Alaska" where he is engaged in "highly skilled work." Corporal Rodgers, who was employed by the big duPont company at Belle, W. Va., before joining Uncle Sam's ranks, trained at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md., and at Ft. Lawton, Seattle, Wash.

John P. Reed, '40, Uhrichsville, a second lieutenant, is a statistical officer attached to the headquarters of the 302nd Bombardment Group at Pueblo, Colo. He was commissioned after completing a course in the A.

F. Statistical School conducted at the Harvard School of Business Administration in Boston.

Warrant Officer Carl S. Mallow, Jr., '38, Washington C. H., is only one of thousands of men who cannot reveal his exact location except to say that he is in the Southern Hemisphere on a South Sea Island. He is in the Judge Advocate General's Department which handles courts martial and other legal matters. Carl was a student in the Ohio State University Law School before entering the Army.

Ensign Lowell F. Hattery, '36, Van Wert, is an administrative assistant to Rear Admiral Howard of the Navy's Bureau of Ships in Washington. Ensign Hattery is also active in Washington in the work of the Society for the Advancement of Management which has for its present objective the development of better management in wartime government. Hattery is vice president of the Washington chapter of the society. He was a campus visitor on August 31.

Lieut. John C. Gleason, '41x, is stationed in Northern Ireland with his service unit. Mrs. Gleason (Emily Zuck, '41), reports that she will be at her home in Erie, Pa., for the "duration."

From Quantico, Va., Leona Hughes, '30, instructor in the Post Children's School at the Marine Barracks, writes that she has recently seen Chief Petty Officer Bernard Sweeney, '31, Athens, and Lieut. (j.g.) Matthew Fehn, '34, Canton, in Norfolk, Va. Both of the Navy men are engaged in the physical fitness program. Miss Hughes' brother, Chief Petty Officer Robert T. Hughes, '36, Oak Hill, accompanied by Mrs. Hughes (Mildred Wigner, '36, 2-yr.), was an Ohio University visitor on October 16. The C. P. O. was on his way to the Navy Yard at Treasure Island, San Francisco, Calif., having completed work in the physical instructors' school at Norfolk.

Staff Sgt. William J. Manning, '39, Youngstown, certainly is "in the money." Not literally, you understand; just figuratively. Bill is in charge of the commercial accounts section of the Finance Office at Camp Breckenridge, Ky., and in September disbursed over a million dollars. Although not filled to capacity at the present time, Camp Breckenridge is being laid out for an anticipated population of 45,000 soldiers.

Bruce L. McChesney, '41, Uniontown, has "joined up" with the U. S. Coast Guard and at last report was located at Portage Station, Hancock, Mich. Before enlistment he was associated with the B. F. Goodrich Co., in Akron.

Lieut. John S. Todd, '41, (see picture) Monongahela, Pa., is one of a number of Ohioans who are in the thick of battle on Guadalcanal Island. No word has been heard from him since the intensive action of recent weeks, but on October 5 he wrote to his parents: "It has been a long time now since we have seen Coca-Cola, a street car, or a woman. However, I imagine it will be longer until we get to enjoy the niceties of life . . . Men are ingenious when put to the necessity of doing things . . . Aside from the mosquitoes and flies the field mice seem to be the most prolific . . . At nights, bats fly through the tops of the coconut trees, squeaking to high heaven."

Capt. Peter I. Olsen, '39, Brooklyn, N. Y., of the U. S. Marine Corps, is another Ohioan sharing in the fun on Guadalcanal Island. Capt. Olsen was a coach in an Athens County high school prior to his entering a training school for marine officers.

A major at the age of 27 is the rank and distinction of George E. Ridgeway, '37, Jackson (see picture), an officer of the U. S. Marine Corps. He resigned a teaching position at Centralia High School, near Chillicothe, to take up military duties in June, 1940. Since that time Major Ridgeway has had special instruction in base defense weapons, aerial photography interpretation, and camouflage. At last report, in September, he was stationed at Camp Elliott, San Diego, Calif.

Pvt. Robert R. Whitaker, '37, Jackson is conductor of the 131st Infantry Band at Fort Brady, Mich. On October 23, Conductor Whitaker had as a guest soloist on his band concert, Captain Wayne King, famous orchestra leader, now in the Army. Bob was a music major at Ohio University.

Ensign Homer Schild, '41, Monroeville (see picture on page 13), is a carrier-based fighter pilot operating in the Pacific under Squadron Leader Edward H. "Butch" O'Hare. Lieut. O'Hare was personally decorated by President Roosevelt for his exploit in shooting down six Jap planes in one day during the Gilbert Islands engagement early this summer. Ensign Schild has seen action in the Solomons area.

Located at the Navy's Pre-Flight School at the University of Georgia, Athens, Ga., Lieut. (j.g.) Joseph W. Begala, '29, Kent, former wrestling and football coach at Kent State University, is the instructor in self-defense tactics which are now taught to every naval aviator. Lieut. Begala emphasizes to the cadets that his course is not concerned with the fine points of sportsmanship, nor is it governed by accepted rules. "It is a fight to the finish when you get into man-to-man combat with an enemy, and the man that loses is usually dead." During the past summer, Lieut. Begala was stationed in Washington where he was a member of a committee of three which wrote the Navy's "Manual on Man-to-Man Instruction."

Pvt. Rex. Koons, '35, Athens, well-known campus orchestra leader, is a member of the 22nd Medical Training Regiment at Camp Robinson, Arkansas.

Major George E. Ridgeway, U.S.M.C.

Ensign William O. Rowland, '43x, Athens (see picture on page 14), son of Judge O. F. Rowland and Mrs. Louise Woolley Rowland, '04, 2-yr., is one of but few pilots who have "bailed out" at a height of no more than 150 feet and have lived to recount the incident. Bill's parachute opened just in time to save him, but three of his flying colleagues were not so fortunate, and lost their lives in a mid-air collision of two training planes early last summer. Ensign Rowland was commissioned and awarded his "Wings" at the Naval Air Station, Jacksonville, Fla., and is now located, temporarily, at the Naval Air Base, Banana River, Fla.

Sgt. Ernest L. Wilson, '39, New Lexington, with the 666th Sig. Rept. Co., Frontier, writes from Galveston, Texas, that "I'm in the best of health, enjoying myself, and swimming in the salty waters of the Gulf of Mexico. It would be a great spot if there weren't a war going on." His work is with radio and aircraft warning equipment.

Committee Chairman Indicates Ways In Which War Effort Is Furthered

Last month a resume of Ohio University's war-connected activities and efforts was compiled upon the basis of information provided by Dean E. A. Hansen, chairman of the War Activities Committee. Because of limited space only a portion of the report could be published in the October issue. The remainder follows:

10. War training courses are now being offered to 753 persons in ten Southeastern Ohio and Northeastern Kentucky cities under the Federal Engineering, Science, and Management Program. Approximately 1,200 persons have completed courses previously given under this program.

11. Members of the teaching staff in the department of chemistry have engaged in important research work for the Government.

12. Voluntary deductions in salary have been voted by all University officers and faculty members for the purchase of war bonds and other securities.

13. Faculty members are serving on the local Selective Service Board, the rationing boards, and various advisory committees.

14. Ground course instruction is provided for the Civilian Pilot Training program.

15. University equipment and teaching staff are being made available to the Government in its program for the training of glider corps enlisted men stationed in Athens.

16. A bureau has been organized to provide speakers to address groups interested in various war-related activities.

17. Ohio University women have established the first Red Cross Auxiliary Chapter in the country.

18. The University has revised its calendar to provide a streamlined, year-around education program which will permit students to complete degree courses in a minimum of time.

More Faculty Men Leave the Campus To Engage in Military Activities

Further depletions in university ranks have occurred during the past month. Since the last report, five more men have left, or will soon leave, teaching or administrative staff positions for army service.

Dean William M. Young, of the College of Applied Science, who held a reserve commission as captain in the Army Signal Corps, has been called up for duty in aircraft signal service at Wright Field, Dayton.

Dr. J. R. Patrick, professor of psychology, has gone to the reception center at Fort Hayes, Columbus, to act as personnel consultant for a brief period, following which he will be transferred to Fort Washington, Md., for seven weeks' training in the Adjutant General's School. He will then be attached to troop units. Captain Patrick was a field artillery officer in World War I.

Captain James R. Patrick

Joseph E. Thackrey, assistant professor in the School of Music, has been commissioned a first lieutenant in the coast artillery and is now serving at Camp Wallace, Tex. During the first World War he saw service in The Philippines as a member of the Army Signal Corps.

Dana P. Kelly, part-time instructor in journalism and assistant in the News Bureau, will join the staff of the Army Air Forces' public relations office in the material center at Wright Field, Dayton, on Dec. 10. Although he will have a civilian status at first there is a prospect that he will don army garb before long.

Wesley Miller, graduate assistant last year in the office of the dean of men, is now at Stout Field, Indianapolis, Ind., where he is a staff sergeant in a headquarters squadron of the Troop Carrier Command.

Supreme Sacrifice Made by Flier In Typical Spirit of Devotion

The handsome young naval officer whose picture appears on the cover page is Ensign Stephen J. Czarnecki, '40, Cleveland, whose death was reported last month.

A participant in the Coral Sea and Midway engagements, Ensign Czarnecki, pilot of a navy dive bomber, is thought to have been in the Solomon Islands area during the action which claimed his life. According to word from the Navy Department his body was given temporary burial abroad.

Of Polish descent, the young officer's devotion to his country was typical of that of hundreds of sons of foreign-born parents. Said his sister, Mrs. Celia Nowicki, upon receipt of the news of her brother's death: "It is terrible to lose a big brother like him but he loved his country. He wrote time and again that he loved it and was going to die for it."

From grief-filled hearts, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Czarnecki, were able to say: "We gave him to his country. This is our country."

President James Granted Leave To Accept South American Post

On Nov. 18 the Ohio University Board of Trustees granted a leave of absence to President Herman G. James to permit him to accept, on or about Feb. 1, an appointment in the U. S. diplomatic service.

It is anticipated that Doctor James will take the post of cultural attache in the American Embassy in Rio de Janeiro representing the United States Department of State in Brazil. The appointment to this position, newly created by Under Secretary Sumner Welles as a part of a program to develop closer associations with South American republics, is a distinct honor and is a recognition of the Ohio President's exceptional qualifications for the post. Doctor James has long been a student of Central and South American affairs and is personally acquainted with these areas.

The selection of an acting president is now under consideration by a committee of the Board of Trustees.

On Dec. 2 President James will preside at a meeting of the executive committee of the National Association of State Universities at Albuquerque, N. M. Doctor James is president of the association.

On and About the Campus . . .

PICTURED HERE is Halfback John Fekete, Findlay senior and outstanding Bobcat gridiron star, as he stepped through the big "O" in half-time ceremonies of the Dad's Day game, Nov. 14, sponsored by the Varsity "O" Club. Fekete, with seven other teammates was participating in his last game in Ohio Stadium.

JOIN THE Army or Navy and get a college education is the gist of an announcement made by the American Council on Education this month. The A.C.E. and the armed forces are cooperating in a scheme whereby U. S. colleges will give soldiers and sailors credits toward college degrees for education they get in service training schools. In another direction, the newly-organized Army Institute is helping soldiers to continue their education by providing correspondence courses which are offered by 77 U. S. colleges, including Ohio University. The courses will be made available not only to troops throughout the country, but to soldiers on atolls in the Pacific and in the jungles of Africa. Lieut. Col. Francis T. Spaulding (borrowed from his job as dean of Harvard's School of Education), is directing the Army Institute from headquarters at the University of Wisconsin. The Army expects that enrollment in the correspondence courses will soon top 100,000.

PRESIDENT H. G. James of Ohio University was elected president of the National Association of State Universities at a meeting of the organization in Chicago, October 25. Doctor James had previously served as secretary of the N.A.S.U. for seven years.

Following the Chicago meeting, President James attended a conference of the Association of Governing Boards of State Universities held in Minneapolis.

GOVERNOR JOHN W. Bricker has appointed two faculty members to the advisory council of the Athens County Selective Service Board No. 1, to serve as advisors to Ohio University students now 18 and 19 years of age and to others who will soon be filling out selective service questionnaires. The new appointees are Dean of Men Laurence W. Lange and Dr. Robert B. Eckles, instructor in history.

PROF. C. C. Robinson, director of Ohio University's School of Music, and Mr. Gordon J. Kinney, instructor of violoncello and ensemble, won first prizes in a nation-wide contest sponsored by the National Composers Clinic. Professor Robinson, who has composed more than 150 musical numbers, most of which have been published by leading music publishers, won first prize in the male choral division with his selection, "Forty Singing Seaman." Mr. Kinney's prize-winning selection was "Quartet for Strings." More than 5,000 manuscripts were entered in the contest.

Senior John Fekete Honored by "O" Men

OHIO UNIVERSITY has received an appropriation of $72,283.68 from the State Board of Control for the purchase and development of an airport, utilizing and extending the existing field east of the city. The sum appropriated consists of $25,005.68 for land, $28,024 for clearing and development of the westward extension of the field, and $19,254 for buildings.

WOMEN TRAINEES have been admitted to a machine shop course offered at Ohio University under the sponsorship of the State Board of Vocational Education and the U. S. Office of Education. The course is designed primarily to train women for positions in vital war plants. Five women are now pursuing the course, and others are expected to enroll soon.

JEAN KETTLER, Steubenville, junior, was presented, at the Military Ball on Nov. 20, as honorary colonel of the Ohio University R. O. T. C. regiment. Escorted under an arch of sabers by Cadet Second Lieut. Robert Wall, Miss Kettler was met by Miss Barbara Brown, Toledo, the retiring honorary colonel, who congratulated her upon the coveted recognition. Cadet Wall, Wickliffe senior, was chairman of the ball committee. Music was furnished by Dick Stabile and his orchestra.

THE CHRISTMAS vacation has been extended one day to eliminate the necessity of students traveling over the week-end and thus further complicating a travel situation which will be bad enough at best. Students will be excused after classes Monday, Dec. 21, and school will be resumed on Tuesday morning, January 5.

THE QUESTION to be debated by the Ohio University women's varsity debate team in a triangular meet with co-eds from Ohio Wesleyan and Capital is: Resolved, That the United Nations should establish a permanent federal union with power to tax and regulate international commerce, to maintain a police force, to settle international disputes, and to enforce any such settlements, and to provide for the admission of other nations which accept the principles of the union."

ANNOUNCEMENT HAS been made of the selection of nine men and eight women, all undergraduates for membership in Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic society. Another group will be selected in May. Those honored this month were: Merle Gladys Abele, Mansfield; Jane Belden, Dayton; Helen Carle, Barnesville; Martha Hesson, Athens; Bernard Horn, Cleveland; Joseph Lamberti, Steubenville; Charles Levitsky, Youngstown; Charles McClave, East Portsmouth; Clara Mohler, South Akron; Chester Muth, Antioch; Nina Plotnikoff, Wharton, N. J.; Bernadine Sewell, Athens; Oscar Srp, Cambridge; Mary Stanbagan, Amanda; Richard Swartzell, Akron; Murray Zukheim, Atlantic City, N. J., and John Greenlees, Marietta. Greenlees is completing his studies at Ohio State University.

READERS of the Nov. 7 issue of the New York Times were interested to find as one of the central figures in a large four-column-width picture, Capt. Wilfred J. Smith, assistant professor of history at Ohio University, now on leave, who is an intelligence officer with the Army Air Forces in the Middle East. In the picture, Captain Smith is shown discussing the results of an air raid with members of a bomber crew upon its return from an attack on Axis bases. In a letter written to Dean W. S. Gamertsfelder under date of Oct. 3, Captain Smith wrote: "I am most fortunate in the friendship of two Ohio University boys in this unit. One has already provided his gold star for our service flag. You will see the star and it will be anonymous, but for me I will always remember that he did his job well - and in the end passed the big examination 'summa cum laude.'" No reports have been received by the Alumni Secretary which would serve to identify the Ohioan reported by Captain Smith to have been killed.

MEN OF the Army and Navy were not the only persons who fared well at table on Thanksgiving Day. Seven hundred pounds of turkey were served to the 1,063 residents of the four Ohio University dormitories, according to Mrs. Margaret K. Davis, '32, director of dining halls. The complete menu: Tomato juice cocktail, parsley and butter crackers, radishes, celery curls, carrot strips, ripe and green olives, roast turkey and dressing, mashed potatoes, gravy, new peas, cranberry sauce, head lettuce with thousand island dressing, hot rolls and jam, pumpkin pie, and coffee.

THREE MEMBERS of the English Department - Dr. J. H. Caskey, Dr. J. B. Heidler, and Dr.

Edith Wray have collaborated in the production of a new textbook, "College Composition," which has been published by Ginn & Co. The book is based on many years of the teaching of college freshmen and meets the needs of students and teachers alike. It presents problems of technique as matters of common sense and common practice rather than a set of dry rules to be learned. At the end of the book there is a complete and well-indexed handbook of rules.

THE THREE hundred and fourteen pledges of Ohio University fraternities took "sweet revenge" on their tormenting actives recently when they secretly planned and carried out their annual "walkout" night. The pledges not only left their domiciles—but before they left they persuaded the cooks to leave also. At one house the pledges went even further. They cleaned out the refrigerator and took the food to the home of a neighboring family for safe keeping—after they had invited twenty faculty members and guests for dinner.

ATOTAL of 36 master's degrees were granted by Ohio University on May 31, July 31, Aug. 21, and Sept. 25. Of this number 21 were received by holders of baccalaureate degrees granted by Ohio University. The names of Ohioans only are given in the following list. Master of Arts. Ferol E. Betz, '37; George W. Booth, '40; Albert Gardner, '34; Mayo B. Iles, '34; Marjorie J. McDonald, '41; Audrey Jacobs Murray, '31; Phyllis C. Neely, '39; Emden C. Schulze, '40; and John A. Wiegman, '40. Master of Science: Clyde W. Bankes, '36; Howard R. Fisher, '40; Edna Lowmiller, '25; Alfred W. Milner, '33; Harold E. Smith, '41; Goldie M. Strawn, '23; and Katherine Varner, '40. Master of Education: Alonzo A. Byers, '29; Joseph S. Guerra, '37; H. E. Headley, '31; Wilbur J. Kuhn, '39; and William A. Smith, '29.

BECAUSE THE Thanksgiving recess was for one day only, students planned an all-campus service, which was presented under the auspices of the Campus Religious Council on Thanksgiving morning. The Council is made up of student representatives and adult advisors of the Christian, Christian Scientist, Catholic, Episcopal, Methodist, Presbyterian, Lutheran, and Jewish student religious groups and the campus YWCA.

EARLE SPICER, America's foremost ballad singer, provided the program for the university convocation on Nov. 12. Mr. Spicer, who has also established a reputation as a concert and radio singer, has a repertoire of several thousand songs, operatic numbers, oratorios, ballads, and lieder, but he excels in the singing of traditional ballads.

THE WORLD is falling apart and into our lap," Louis Adamic, author and patriot, told a university convocation audience on Nov. 24. "We should start now to train an army of reconstruction experts who will go to Europe at the end of the war to direct the use of relief materials, to establish order, and to act as missionaries for the American way of life." Mr. Adamic sketched briefly a plan for a special peacetime American Reconstruction Mission to be composed of an executive staff; an intelligence and information division; a division of food, clothing, and shelter; one of agricultural rehabilitation; a division of industrial relations, of finance, and of trade; a division of public education, and a division of democratic propaganda.

Northern Ohio Clubs Maintain Near-Normal Activity Programs

In spite of inconveniences and disruptions occasioned by the war situation, Ohio University's alumnae and alumni organizations are functioning faithfully and well in three northern Ohio centers—Akron, Cleveland, and Youngstown.

The Ohio University Women's Club of Akron met for luncheon at the Woman's City Club, Sept. 26, with 19 members and two guests present. The presiding officer was Lillie Greer, '25, 2-yr., club president. After a business meeting, during which it was decided that the club should take an active part in war work in the community, Mrs. W. E. McCorkle (Bessie M. Jones, '18x) entertained the group with motion pictures of her recent travels and with pictures taken of the club members at a previous meeting.

The October meeting of the Akron women was held at the home of Mrs. Robert Ryder, 1421 Delia Ave., on the 24th. It was in the nature of a covered dish luncheon. Twenty-one members and guests attended. Miss Laura Zimmerman, guest speaker, told of her many interesting experiences as an exchange teacher to England in 1938. The club's annual Guest Day Luncheon is scheduled for Nov. 28.

Mrs. Jack Pixler (Winnifred Shott, '25) assumed duties as secretary of the Akron club when Mrs. D. D. Berry (Betty Ferrell, '39x) and her husband moved from the community. Mrs. Pixler is a former secretary of the organization.

The Ohio University Women's Club of Youngstown concluded a successful year of activities with their annual guest day luncheon, April 25, at the Pick-Ohio Hotel. Approximately 60 members and guests were present.

Doris Moore, '24, 2-yr., chairman of the committee on arrangements, introduced Prof. C. N. Mackinnon, of the department of English, who held the close attention of his hearers with a review of Louis Adamic's fascinating book, "From Many Lands."

A business session, presided over by the club leader, Eliza Allison, '16, preceded the election and installation of new officers. The impressive installation service was directed by its originator, Gertrude Maier, '23. Virginia Mullett, '40, is the club's song leader.

The Youngstown women opened their new year with a potluck dinner at Slippery Rock Pavilion on Sept. 26. Mrs. Walter H. Heller (Thora Carlson, '21, 2-yr.) was chairman of the committee on arrangements. On Oct. 24, a "crazy bridge luncheon" was held at the Stoneleigh Tea Room under the sponsorship of a committee headed by Virginia Slaven, '42x. The Nov. 21 meeting, under the direction of Weltha Keck, '21, and her committee, featured a book review. The next gathering of the club will be a dinner meeting at Raver's on Jan. 23, with Mrs. E. E. Blair (Lois Lackey, '19, 2-yr.) heading up the committee work.

The president of the Youngstown club this year is Lucile Lee, '29. The secretary is Mrs. William Evans.

The Ohio University Women's Club of Cleveland initiated the year's activities with a luncheon at Higbee's on Oct. 10. The speaker was Eleanor Hanson, director of women's activities for Radio Stations WHK and WCLE. Her subject was "Listen, America." Mrs. George M. Brown (Ruth Fowler, '32x), club president, was chairman of the committee for the October meeting.

On Nov. 3, the Cleveland women held an all-day rummage sale at 4528 Detroit Avenue, the proceeds of which were applied to the club's scholarship fund. Mrs. H. J. Dickerson (Anna Porter, '15) was chairman of the committee in charge. The next luncheon meeting, to be held at Higbee's, is scheduled for Dec. 12 under the direction of a committee headed by Mrs. Carr Liggett (Hazel Thomas, '18). Mrs. C. B. Montis (Doris Pipes, '24, 2-yr.) will speak on "The Lives of the Presidents' Wives."

Heading up the Cleveland club this year are Mrs. Brown, president, Mrs. Ronald C. Runkle, secretary, and Dr. LaVinia Warner, chairman of the executive committee.

The Cleveland Bobcat Club, composed of the male element in the ranks of alumni in the Greater Cleveland area has discontinued its schedule of dinner meetings "for the duration," but will continue activities on an informal basis, meetings being subject to the call of the officers. One luncheon rally has been held this fall.

Because the Ohio-Reserve game held in Cleveland on Nov. 6 was a night affair, the club did not sponsor its customary dance for alumni and undergraduates. In its place a post-game rendezvous was arranged for at

Alumni Secretary Requests Names For Official Service Roster

There are now well over 1,200 names of graduates and former students enrolled on the Official Roster of Ohio University Men and Women in Military and Naval Service. This roll is being maintained by the Alumni Office as a joint service to the university and its alumni body.

The cooperation of large numbers of persons—alumni, parents, friends, and university officials—is required to make this roster representative of the contribution being made by Ohioans to the nation's armed might. Every reader of The Ohio Alumnus is called upon, therefore, to report to the central alumni office the names of alumni whom he knows to be in the military or naval forces. There will be duplications of names submitted, of course, but that is unavoidable. The probability of duplicate registrations should not deter persons from making as extensive a report as possible. Many names will be missed, otherwise.

Bulletin: Navy Pre-Flight School Established on the Ohio U. Campus

At press time the announcement was released that Ohio University had been accepted by the United States Navy for the establishment of a Naval Flight Preparatory Training School. The agreement between the Navy's Bureau of Personnel and university authorities was reached after several weeks of negotiations.

Howard Hall and the Men's Dormitory will be used for housing the 600 cadets of the naval unit, who will arrive in "waves" of 200 each on or about Jan. 7, Feb. 7, and Mar. 7. A full complement of 600 men will be continuously on hand after the maximum is reached.

the Cleveland Athletic Club where Ohio fans gathered to greet each other and discuss the game. The club also sponsored the sale of a special block of tickets for the game.

John L. Finnicum, '09, 2-yr., has been elected president of the Bobcat Club to succeed Dr. O. L. Dustheimer, '13, former professor of mathematics and astronomy at Baldwin-Wallace College, who has accepted a position on the faculty of Penn State College. Mr. Finnicum is owner of a manufacturers agency in Cleveland.

Turkey Day Game Remains in Grid Season Which Sees Bobcats Unbeaten on Home Field

WITH BUT one game remaining on the schedule, Don Peden's record of never having experienced a losing season in his 18 years as head football coach at Ohio University is safe for another year.

A Thanksgiving tilt with the University of Dayton in the Gem City will ring down the curtain on the 1942 gridiron season. To date, victories have been scored over Akron, Butler, Ohio Wesleyan, Miami, and Xavier. Set-backs were suffered at the hands of Cincinnati and Western Reserve. The three hitherto unreported games were with Miami, Western Reserve and Xavier.

With John Fekete again at the throttle of the Bobcat grid machine the Ohioans steamrollered the Miami Redskins, 39-13, before an Oxford homecoming crowd on Oct. 31.

In a night game at Shaw High School stadium in East Cleveland on Nov. 6, the Bobcats tried in vain to break a jinx of 12 years standing. Not since 1930 have the Pedenites been able to down Western Reserve's Red Cats in their own back yard, and this year they came home with the short end of a 20 to 7 score. The Bobcats showed promise in spots, but only once were they able to capitalize on a scoring opportunity. There was a noticeable weakness in the passing department—both offense and defense.

Winding up the home season without a mishap, the Bobcats triumphed over the Xavier Musketeers, Nov. 14, in a thrilling Dad's Day game, 20-14.

In half-time ceremonies Varsity "O" men, headed by Bob Wren, basketball letterman, introduced the senior members of the football squad, each man trotting through a huge "O" (see page 7) as his name was called. Those who received the plaudits of a home crowd for the last time were: John Fekete, Bill Heinz, Gerald Ramsey and Bob Johnson, backs; Carl Jamison, guard; Joe Ricardi, tackle; Glenn Leadingham, center; and Jack Clark, end.

Frank Szalay, '42, All-Ohio center last year, who has just completed his pre-flight training in the Naval Air Corps and who played football this fall with the Iowa Seahawks, was present for the Xavier game and was presented with a gift from Varsity "O" members following his introduction to the fans in the stadium.

COOPERATING CLOSELY with the U. S. Office of Education, Ohio University's Division of Physical Welfare is shaping its program so as to give men students every possible advantage in their physical preparation for service in the armed force.

A course in physical welfare is now required of every student each semester, and a sectional institute, under a four-state Regional Training Institute on Physical Fitness, is soon to be established. The purpose of the institute will be to train instructors in the physical improvement methods advocated by army and navy leaders.

Because ability to swim has enabled many service men to save their lives when their vessels or aircraft have been sunk, a survey is to be made in all gym classes to discover how many men cannot swim. Efforts will be made to teach as many of the non-swimmers as possible to swim or to at least keep themselves afloat.

According to Director of Physical Welfare O. C. Bird, "the physical fitness program at Ohio University is being widely copied, but there is still much room for improvement."

To develop ruggedness, endurance, agility, and strength, an obstacle, or commando, course has been laid out and constructed on land adjacent to the tennis courts, baseball field, and the stadium. The course is 750 yards long and contains 26 different obstacles. The course was designed and built under the supervision of Carl T. Nessley, assistant professor of physical welfare.

The course is built to accommodate four men at a time. Among the obstacles are a fence vaulting boom, a 9-foot scaling wall (see picture), high and low wickets, over-running logs, a high climbing ladder, an 18 foot horizontal traveling beam, a wired-in maze which one enters erect and emerges from on hands and knees, a 12-foot ditch jump, and several 50 to 75-foot runs by winding paths over rough terrain.

Time trials over the course have resulted in the keenest sort of competition. To date, the course record is held jointly by Victor Whitacre, Chesterhill junior, and Henry Saulmeir, a freshman from Swarthmore, Pa. Their time is 6 minutes and 5 seconds. Whitacre is the son of Dr. A. H. Whitacre, '22, and Mrs. Lena Sams Whitacre, '21.

Here and There Among the Alumni

One of the "catchiest" of the current war songs is the now well-known "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition." On November 7, the Cleveland Plain Dealer published the following pertinent comment by DR. DON D. TULLIS, '98, minister of the Tourists' Church, Daytona Beach, Fla., who was for several years, 1930-37, executive secretary of the Federated Churches of Greater Cleveland.

That chaplain who made this remark said nothing original. He was repeating the words of another prophet who lived 2,500 years ago.

Nehemiah was rebuilding Jerusalem, and Sanballat and Tobiah, the Hitler and Mussolini of that day tried to frustrate his plans, whereupon he ordered his people: "Remember the Lord and fight."

There is nothing inconsistent in this if the cause is just. If we are fighting for freedom and equal opportunity for the white man only, and not for the yellow man and black man, then prayers for victory are vain and taking up arms a crime. We would not give up our sugar, much less our sons, for a cause like that.

Once sure of the Christian foundations of our war aims, we should pray as we have never prayed and fight as we have never fought for victory. This is a moral universe and justice and right will eventually decide this conflict. They cannot be reached by long-range guns or shattered by two-ton bombs.

But prayer is not enough. If we "remember the Lord" and fail to fight, we are not only shirking our duty but we are inviting defeat. Moses was a man of prayer, but when his army was hard pressed on every side God said to him: "Wherefore criest thou unto Me? Speak to the children of Israel that they go forward." He was on his knees when he should have been on his feet. He was saying prayers when he should have been shouting orders. He was praising the Lord when he should have been passing the ammunition.

We are all fighting in this war on one side or the other. He who is not both praying and working for the Allied cause is aiding the enemy. The day you do nothing for your country you do something for Hitler. We abhor enemy aliens, but those who delay production for selfish aims or hinder necessary legislation for political reasons are "enemy Americans" and equally abhorrent.

It required Calvary to usher in the kingdom of Christ. It may require a million crosses to bring this freedom to all mankind, but it is worth it.

Faith is absolutely necessary, but faith without works is dead. Let us both

"Praise the Lord and pass the ammunition."

A son of the Florida minister, Lieut. James L. Tullis, has recently reached a foreign station in a medical unit sent out from Roosevelt Hospital, New York City.

CARL D. SHEPPARD, '02, a prominent Akron attorney and former Ohio University trustee, will be back amid familiar surroundings when he takes his seat in the State Senate on Jan. 9. Mr. Sheppard, now a member of the House of Representatives, is a former state senator.

DR. FLOYD COULTRAP, '04, is a Toledo physician who is serving on the staffs of Mercy and Robinwood Hospitals. During the past year his two daughters, Betty Jane and Mary Alice, have married young men who are now serving in armed forces overseas.

Twice within the past month did the stork confer the title of "Grandmother" upon Mrs. C. F. McAmbly (WINIFRED HIGGINS, '07), Rochester, N. Y., while at the same time leaving tiny bundles in the homes of two of her children, Ensign Joe McAmbly, Cambridge, Mass., and Mrs. Marion McAmbly Carroll, Detroit, Mich. Another son, KEERY McAMBLY, '41, is a pilot undergoing advanced training in the army's glider school at Kirkland Field, New Mexico.

DR. BOYD M. KROUT, '09, has been a physician on the staff of General Hospital, Stockton, Calif., for several years. Prior to going to Stockton, he practiced his profession in Oakland, Calif., where DR. RAYMOND J. NUTTING, '13, has long been an oculist. Dr. Nutting is also an ophthalmologist at the University of California Infirmary and the Alameda County Hospital.

From DAVID M. COOPER, '10, Columbus, location engineer for the State Highway Department, comes word that WILLIAM R. UNDERWOOD, '22, a former assistant engineer in the highway department, is now a captain in the Army Air Corps and is stationed near New Delhi, India.

CHARLES G. STEWART, '10, is general manager of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad, with headquarters in Pittsburgh. Mr. Stewart resides in Wildwood, a suburban community.

DR. WINIFRED V. RICHMOND, '10, retired on October 1 after 22 years as a psychiatrist at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Washington, D. C., the government mental hospital for mental diseases.

Dr. Richmond has long sought an opportunity to give more time to writing, and at her winter residence in Santa Fe, New Mexico, she will put the finishing touches on two books which are now well under way.

volume, "Making the Most of Your Personality," was written especially for adolescents and was published early this year by Farrar & Rinehart. Child Study magazine and Parents magazine have both acclaimed the book as the best that has appeared in its field. What Miss Richmond appreciates more than anything else is the fact that many youngsters, themselves, have written to thank her for the counsel and advice contained in the book. Dr. Richmond is the author of six books now in print.

MANLEY L. COULTRAP, '11, publisher of the Corcoran (Calif.) Journal, writes that "My son, Henry W. Coultrap, entered Stanford University as a freshman in September. It was too far back to Ohio U., so we chose the next best school." The Stanford freshman was named for his grandfather, the late JUDGE HENRY W. COULTRAP, '71, of McArthur.

MILTON D. HUGHES, '12, Athens attorney, was appointed city solicitor when that position was vacated early in August by FOSTER B. CORNWELL, '32, who enlisted in the U. S. Army. Mr. Hughes, who saw service in World War I, is a graduate of Harvard Law School and for 13 years was a part-time instructor in Ohio University's College of Commerce. Attorney Cornwell is now Private Cornwell of Co. A, 17th Bn., Armored Force, at Fort Knox, Ky.

A three-hour swim without a life-jacket in flaming, oil-covered water, doubly hazardous because of sharks and bursting depth bombs, was the experience of Rigby Mast, an aerial gunner on the U. S. S. Wasp, an aircraft carrier which was sunk off the Solomons on Sept. 15. Gunner Mast is a son of Mrs. Earl Mast (HAZEL RIGBY, '12), an instructor in the high school at East Liverpool. The young airman's story of his experiences in the Solomons and in the Mediterranean, off Malta, is a thrilling one.

FLORENCE M. MIESSE, '12, 2-yr., whose alumni association membership fee is annually one of the first to be received, is a saleswoman for a large baking company, one of whose specialties is fruit cakes which are sold to business and industrial concerns to be given as Christmas gifts to select customers and employees. Miss Miesse has recently reported the sale of 1,600 fruit cakes to one manufacturer. She says a sale like this, however, "happens only once in a lifetime."

JUDGE LEWIS H. MILLER, '13, Ripley, W. Va., of the Fifth Judicial Circuit, has recently completed a revision, in two volumes, of "Hoag's Equity Procedure" for the bench and bar of Virginia and West Virginia.

REV. CARROLL STEWART, '14, who has recently retired as pastor of the East Glencville Methodist Church in Cleveland, has purchased a farm home near Clyde, a community in which he was formerly located. He is the husband of the former MISS ELIZABETH ROBINSON, '14. Both of the Stewart sons, William and James, are now attending a theological seminary and hold student charges.

FRED B. GODDARD, '15, Marietta, is the auditor-elect of Washington County. He is a brother of the late C. C. GODDARD, '17, Cleveland.

HENRY H. ECCLES, '15, a former executive in the Office of Emergency Management, in Washington, D. C., has assumed new duties, in Cleveland, as regional administrative officer for the Office of Defense Transportation. His headquarters are in the Guardian Bank Building, once the largest office building in the United States. He will supervise personnel and office operations for the ODT in Ohio, Michigan, Kentucky, and West Virginia. Mr. Eccles, with Mrs. Eccles (ELEANOR CHRIST, '20) and their daughter, Eleanor, a high school senior, is living in Lakewood.

Marilyn Mills, chosen this fall in an informal poll as one of the three most attractive freshman co-eds on the campus, was married on October 10 to William A. Welty, Lancaster, a student at Ohio State University. Mr. and Mrs. Welty are now living in Columbus. Mrs. Welty is the daughter of L. H. MILLS, '16, and Mrs. Mills, of Cleveland, where Mr. Mills is principal of Kennard and Brownell junior high schools.

GLADYS M. HOWELL, '16, 2-yr., McArthur, who has attended Columbia University in addition to Ohio University, is the new auditor, succeeding Lamar Otis, of the students' general fund. She has been an accountant for the Pennsylvania College for Women, Pittsburgh, for several years, and has done commercial accounting in the states of New York and Pennsylvania.

Besides his teaching at Case School of Applied Science, now mostly meteorology, DR. JOHN G. ALBRIGHT, '16, is spending a considerable part of his time at the Cleveland Clinic, working with the famed Dr. George W. Crile on a war research problem in high altitude flying.

A communication recently received from EDWARD D. PAYNE, '17, an instructor in Central High School and Franklin University, Columbus, reports that: "Our son, Lieut. Carl W. Payne, an aviator over Africa, brought down the first French plane in the African campaign."

DR. M. LAVINIA WARNER '18, superintendent of Cleveland's widely-known Blossom Hill School (Brecksville), and an authority in the field of social administration, was the principal speaker at the annual Ohio University Leaders' Rally, Nov. 18, sponsored by the Women's League. Instead of the annual banquet, the League substituted a "smorgasbord," with true Swedish punch, food, and waitresses in Swedish costumes.

Chaplain to the British tanker crews that daily flirt with death on the high seas and "big brother" to the officers and men of the U. S. Naval Base at Corpus Christi, Texas, is one of the ways in which Dr. William C. Munds, former rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd in the Gulf Coast city, was characterized by his friends. Dr. Munds recently, however, has gone to Christiana Hundred, Delaware, near Wilmington, to accept the rectoryship of Christ's Church. The church, well over 100 years old, is known as the "church of the duPonts." The Episcopal clergyman is the husband of the former Miss CATHERINE CHUBB

'18, daughter of Dean Emeritus Edwin Watts Chubb, of Ohio University's College of Arts and Sciences.

Ever loyal to Ohio University, WALTER E. BARNHILL, '19, veteran industrial arts instructor in Rayen High School, Youngstown, has an additional tie to his alma mater in a daughter, Marian, a freshman this year.

CAPTAIN KENNETH P. "BILL" KLINGER '20x, cartoonist for the Cleveland Plain Dealer for the last 17 years, and who participated in the first World War, is back again in military service.

When Referee Frank Birch "went lame" in the first few minutes of the Ohio State-Michigan game in the big stadium at Columbus, which was witnessed by a record crowd of 76,000 persons, UMPIRE EARL C. "IRISH" KRIEGER, '20, took over the horn and the top officiating post. Krieger, a Columbus insurance man, is a member of the National Football Rules Committee and a recognized authority on the game.

At the last meeting of the Ohio State Medical Association, DR. GEORGE A. WOODHOUSE '21, Pleasant Hill physician, was elected one of seven delegates from Ohio to the American Medical Association.

Among the large number of "second generation" students enrolled as freshmen at Ohio University this year are Var-lou Patton and Martha Pergrin, daughters, respectively of Mr. and Mrs. Lee M. Patton (GERTRUDE WALKER '21), Twinsburg, and Mrs. DORIS PARKS PERGRIN '36. Miss Pergrin's father MAX V. PERGRIN '23x, died in 1934. Miss Patton's father was a lieutenant on the S.A.T.C. staff at Ohio University during World War I.

MRS. JOSEPHINE WULFEN ROBERTSON '21, a special writer for the Cleveland Plain Dealer and widow of one of that paper's former associate editors, won first place in two of the most important classifications in the annual competitions of the Ohio Newspaper Women's Association. The prizes were for the best straight-news story and the best feature story for newspapers of more than 25,000 circulation.

JULIAN M. SNYDER '22, is now a vice president of Erwin, Wasey & Company, Inc., an advertising concern with offices in the major cities of the United States and in London, Paris, The Hague, Oslo, Stockholm, and Helsinki. From New York City he writes that, "Life here is buzzing along, but I miss the happy days of London and Paris."

Friends of MRS. MAUDE SKIDMORE REED, '22, will regret to know that her husband, the Rev. Kenneth J. Reed, has been forced by illness to retire from his ministry at Perry. His left vocal cord was removed in an operation on June 16, but he is now able to perform light duties at the Spear Funeral Home in Painesville. Mrs. Reed is teaching fifth grade in a rural school near Painesville.

LIEUT. (S.G.) RALPH WILKINS, '23, Columbus attorney and former member of the State Tax Commission, is now serving in the Naval Air Corps and is stationed at Patuxent River, Md.

Mrs. D. Hale Berlin (SARA FITTON, '24x), formerly of Bellare, but for the past ten years a resident of San Diego, Calif., has been appointed secretary of membership, public relations, and recreation of the San Diego Y.W.C.A. She has been a member of the board of directors and a vice president of the San Diego organization. She has also served as president of the Pan-Hellenic Group in the California city.

KATHRYN PHILSON, '28, M.S. '39, Racine, is supervisor of Ohio University's home management house on East Union St., and a part-time instructor in home economics. Besides earning two degrees at Ohio University, Miss Philson has studied dietetics at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, Md. She has taught in Ohio high schools and at Kansas State College, Manhattan, Kans., and at Berea College, Berea, Ky.

VIRGINIA KNECHT '28, is one of five Ohio University alumnae who are principals of rural consolidated high schools in Athens county this year. Miss Knecht heads up the Carthage-Troy system at Coolville. The others are Carrye Smith, '35, Greens Run; Treva Black, '26, Hollister; Margaret Lavery, '31, Rome-Canaan; and Lois Gancy, '26, Waterloo.

"One day merges into another until we lose track of time over here," writes MAJOR GUY W. BRUGLER '29, administrative head of the Army's 4th General Hospital in Australia at which Cleveland's "Lakeside Unit" is serving. Before giving up civilian activities Major Brugler was assistant director of administration of the University Hospitals of Cleveland.

LILLIAN S. DENNER '29, a Cincinnati teacher, obtained a first aid instructor's certificate last April, attended the University of Wisconsin during the summer, was sworn in as an air raid warden in September, gave three pints of blood to the Red Cross last month, and is now enrolled in a nurse's aid class. That, we think, is really contributing something to the war effort.

MARGARET E. DAVIS '30, a physical education instructor in the Portsmouth schools, has been granted a leave of absence to enroll for training in the WAAC at Fort Des Moines, Iowa. Miss Davis, incidentally, is one of ten "Margaret Davises" in Alumni Office files.

DALLAS F. FARMER, '30, Newark, is general supervisor of Moore's of Ohio (37 auto supplies and accessories stores). He reports that his classmate, Lieut. HARRY A. HALLER, of Cleveland, is now a physician at the Mare Island Naval Hospital, near San Francisco.

Mrs. M. G. Britton (FLORIDE SPRAGUE, '31), whose home is in Arlington, Va., is an assistant accounting clerk for the U. S. Maritime Commission in the nation's capital across the Potomac.

WAYNE T. MATTHEWS, '31, formerly principal of the East Side School in Athens, was appointed superintendent of the Chauncey-Dover Schools in Athens County this fall.

EDWARD C. KEEFE, '31, A.M. '33, who in recent years has held faculty positions at Davis-Elkins College and Muskingum College, now holds a commission in the Navy as lieutenant (j.g.) and is serving at Newport, R. I.

ELDON L. HAWK, '32, A.M. '33, has coached football and directed physical education at Chamberlain Junior High School, Charleston, W. Va., for eight years, and has consistently turned out good teams. This year, his boys won the junior high league when they defeated another school which had never before been beaten by Chamberlain.

When WILMA A. LORENTE, A.M. '32, accepted a summer position with the Pullman Company in Washington, D. C., she rendered such satisfactory service that the company insisted upon her giving up a high school teaching position in Williams-town, W. Va. As special inducements to wean Miss Lorentz from the field of pedagogy the Pullman organization offered her a fine increase in salary and a special leave of absence for the purpose of securing a satisfactory substitute in the West Virginia school.

CORP. JAMES S. DEARTH, '33, a former Morgan county high school teacher, is an entomologist and parasitologist in an Army Medical Corps laboratory somewhere in Australia.

Stricken with acute appendicitis in the middle of a successful football season, COACH HARRY M. LACKEY, '33, A.M. '36, Athens High School mentor, was forced to turn the coaching reins over to SHERMAN E. GILMORE, '33, A.M., junior high principal, who carried on in a most acceptable fashion. Coach Lackey's satisfactory recovery was no doubt hastened by the sympathetic ministrations of the Missus, who was GRACE SAMMONS, '37.

FRANCIS P. LACZKO, '34, who is living at Wilmington, is an administrative assistant in the Air Service Command in Dayton.

BERNARD W. "BEANIE" BERENS, '35, the tallest athlete ever to enter Ohio University and holder of the state intercollegiate basketball scoring record in his senior year, has accepted a position at the Boys' Industrial School near Lancaster. Until recently, he was an instructor and coach at St. Marys High School in Lancaster.

Word has been received of the death of Carter N. Abel, Sr., Ironton, on July 2, following a minor operation. Mr. Abel, father of CARTER N. ABEL, JR., '36, with whom the latter was associated in business, was the founder of the Ohio Calcium Co. at Ironton, a concern which processes lime for use in steel mills, and had been associated with some of the largest steel companies in the country.

The young lady with the friendly smile (see picture on page 11) is MARGARET FLORY, '36, A.M. '38, student secretary and religious director of the Athens Presbyterian Church. Before assuming this position two years ago, Miss Flory had taught in the high school at Bainbridge and in the Alabama State College for Women at Montevallo. A speech major, Miss Flory was a member of two state oratorical championship teams. Her graduate thesis was "An Analysis of the Oratory of Franklin D. Roosevelt."

ROBERT A. SNYDER, '36, Bobcat gridiron star who later shone as a quarterback with the Cleveland Rams and the Chicago Bears, professional teams, was added to the Notre Dame University coaching staff this fall to instruct in the "T" formation which the late Knute Rockne used in the early days of his coaching and which Coach Leahy has again introduced as a basis for Notre Dame gridiron tactics.

Sgt. and Mrs. J. S. Sampselle (RITA ELLEN BURNS, '36), are now residents of Columbus where the former is located in the R.O.T.C. office at Ft. Hayes. Sgt. Sampselle was a member of the Ohio University R.O.T.C. staff for two years, while Mrs. Sampselle is a former secretary in the office of the dean of men.

CHARLES D. FERRARO, '36, is chief of service for the War Production Board in the Cleveland region.

JOHN R. WHITING, '36, until recently

managing editor of Check magazine, is now with the Office of War Information in New York City. With Mrs. Whiting (HELEN GAMERTSFELDER, '38) and their 13-months-old daughter, Wendy Helen, he lives at Hastings-on-Hudson, New York.

YOEMAN BRUCE O. BOWER, '37, U. S. Coast Guard, is stationed at the Swift Water Point Submarine Base, Fineview, N. Y.

From HARRIS FARMER, '37, and Mrs. Farmer (MARTHA LOWRY, '37), Fairfield, Conn., word is received that their classmate, JEAN MCNEILL, is now an American Red Cross social-medical worker with a hospital unit overseas. Miss McNeill is a daughter of Col. T. F. McNeill, former commandant of the R.O.T.C. unit at Ohio University and now commanding officer at Fort Slocum, N. Y.

SGT. CHARLES E. RASOR, '38 (see picture above) is on technical duty at an army engineers base headquarters "somewhere in Alaska." His outfit is engaged in work on the famous military highway which is nearing completion. Before going to Alaska he was head accountant for a regimental exchange at Camp Hunter Liggett, Calif. Prior to entering the service, Sergeant Rasor was an accountant in the export bond department of the American Smelting & Refining Co. at Tacoma, Wash. At Ohio University he ranked second, scholastically, in a class of 534 members.

F. CARLIN WEIMER, '38, an instructor in electrical engineering at Ohio State University has informed the Alumni Office that his brother, LIEUT. C. E. WEIMER, JR., '41, Dayton, and Miss Helen G. Robertson, '41, Dayton, were married last May at Camp Lee, Va. In October Lieutenant Weimer left for overseas service.

GEORGE R. BELCHER, '38, is engaged in work, in a civilian capacity, for the Air Service Command, at Patterson Field, Dayton. In a letter to PROF. R. F. BECKERT, '23, one of his former instructors, George states that "the work here is interesting, but it is the only place I know of that Olson and Johnson could stage 'Hellzapoppin' and no one would think that anything was going on." The Dayton worker is expecting to be inducted about the end of the current month.

KAY MURPHY, '36, for the past six years a member of the editorial staff of the Columbus Dispatch, has gone to Miami, Fla., to accept a new position with the women's department of the Miami Herald.

VICTORIA BURST, '38, is director of nutrition at the Woman's Hospital in Cleveland. DR. KATHRYN E. BUPELL, '37, who finished her internship at the Cleveland hospital this summer is now a second-year intern and staff physician at the Woman's Hospital of Detroit.

DALE ENGLE, Ohio University senior, and son of MRS. WINIFRED R. ENGLE, '38, Logan teacher, spent the past summer as an apprentice at Theatre-in-the-Dale, a professional summer theatre in Milford, Conn. In one of the theatre's weekly productions he was cast in a minor role in Jack Kirkland's "Tobacco Road," in which John Barton played the leading role.

LIEUT. (j.g.) THOMAS E. FLYNN, '39, Collinwood, N. J., is radio officer on the U. S. S. Arkansas, a battleship in the Atlantic Fleet. If Lieutenant Flynn could only tell where he has been and what he has seen—but he can't.

JACK WIEGMAN, '40, A.M., '42, is a personnel technician with the Federal Public Housing Authority in Cleveland. In the same office with him are GENE ATTWOOD, '42, a receptionist, and GEORGE FEHNDRICK, '42, another personnel technician.

ROBERT P. WHITE, '39, and Mrs. White (ALVA BRUDWICK, '38), are residents of Coconut Grove, Miami, Fla. The former is a pilot for Pan American Airways.

Mrs. Owen W. Smither (EILENE HOWARD, '39), is a secretary, in Boston, Mass., for the Office of Strategic Services. Her husband is a lieutenant (j.g.) in the Navy.

J. HOWARD "HOLDY" HOUK, JR., '39, is still wearing civvies because his induction board discovered traces of an early-youth illness which it thought might possibly result in a future incapacitation. Airways. Last year Miss Jones was employed as a teacher in the high school at Louisville.

GRUDE "TRUDY" DICKERSON, '41, is thrilled at her experiences at the Great Falls, Montana, airport, where she is an air traffic controller trainee under the Civil Aeronautics Administration. Before going to the Western post, Trudy had received training at the Cleveland Airport and at one of the C. A. A. schools in Chicago. The purpose of air traffic control is to prevent collisions and to expedite traffic. Lives are dependent upon the speedy computations of the air traffic personnel. A slight mistake might result in tragedy. The controllers correlate information on the movement of aircraft and clear pilots for certain flights and altitudes. Miss Dickerson, who holds a private pilot's license, is an experienced air woman. Although she has not yet been permitted to take over the "tower" unaided, she has "talked in" planes under the supervision of experienced tower men. Her schooling at Chicago included flight planes, radio control, civilian air regulations, meteorology, accident procedure, and radio range stations.
